HIGH HOPES ARE

SALUTATORIAN, Jim Kesler

If we as students expect to be active in the world of tomorrow, we must lay the foundation of learning now. Whatever we do—good or bad—is all part of learning for our later roles in life. The four years we spend in preparation are but a brief phase of our lives. Circumstances can limit us but the final success or failure is up to us.

VALEDICTORIAN, Rose Marie Hoover

We as citizens in a democracy can play an active part in building the kind of world we want to live in. As we attain small goals, we will be led on to greater goals. What will the future bring? Only time will tell. The challenge is ours and we will meet it with High Hopes. With High Hopes and determination we will succeed.

PEOPLE

Students in New Paris High School have many and varied interests. No two persons have the same combination of abilities, feelings, experiences, or strong or weak points. Personality is an important feature which will have much to do with the goals we attain in life. Our ideas are vast and our expectations and hopes are unlimited. During the high school years, students Of New Paris High School prepare for the future with High Hopes for success.

A Time Of Great Decision Is Here

New Sheraton—Chicago, on North Michigan Ave.

Most of the seniors participated in some extra-curricular activity this year. Two senior teams began selling annuals in October. The girls' team outsold the boys' team. Seventeen seniors presented the play "Shy Guy" on November 13 and 15. On December 1 the seniors held a pancake and sausage supper in the school cafeteria. They also sponsored two record hops after home basketball games during the first semester. A Jonah Club Style fish fry was held on May 4.

The main event of the year was the senior trip. The class went to Chicago for three days—May 10, 11, and 12. While staying at the Chicago-Sheraton Hotel, they enjoyed many activities. Among these were a night tour of Chicago, a visit to Lincoln Park Zoo, and the University of Chicago, and a tour of the Museum Of Science and Industry.

The junior class entertained the seniors on May 17 at the Elcona Country Club.

Baccalaureate services were held on May 19, Commencement followed on May 23. Rose Marie Hoover was valedictorian and Jim Kesler was salutatorian of the class.

To gather new ideas and gain knowledge on how to produce a yearbook, the 1963 PARISIAN staff members attended the Eastern Indiana Journalism Day at Ball State Teachers College.

The work of the advertising committee began during August and continued on through September. Under the supervision of Darlene Helmuth and Darrel Beachy, subscriptions for the PARISIAN were sold during the month of November.

Linda Elliott was selected as editor for the 1964 PARISIAN. Linda sat in on many of the long work sessions to help and learn, in part, the many problems and the hard work that go into the production of an annual.

The 51 members of the junior class had a very busy and exciting year. The class received their rings in November. Many activities were performed by the members of the junior class. These activities included a magazine sale, a car wash, a candy sale, two sock hops, and the sale of refreshments at basketball games. Fred Schrock was the top magazine salesman, selling $287 worth. The total sales of the class was $2,600. The proceeds from these money-making projects are used to finance the prom and the senior trip.

ACTIVITIES

In order to make our education complete, we must participate in the various extra-curricular activities. Besides having fun, these activities give us a chance to make new friends and to learn to get along with others. Students and teachers alike enjoy the basketball games, class plays, dances, parties, and assembly programs. Through the various social functions, and activities, we find our year has been rewarding and filled with many High Hopes.

Girls of the Sunshine Society find the key to happiness by helping and serving others.

The "Mr. Irresistible" contest was a special feature of the Sunshine Society this year. The boy who could get a girl to talk to him on February 8, got one of her paper hearts, put his name on it, and placed it in the ballot box. The boy obtaining the most hearts—Fred Schrock—was crowned "Mr. Irresistible" at the Student Council Valentine Dance.

The Sunshine Society again sponsored a successful Riley Queen Contest.

Standing: Phil Weybright, President; Wilbur Borkholder, Lester Rassi, David Weybright, Gerald Wagner, Mrs. Dunker, Fred Schrock.

The Student Council is the organization that bridges the gap between the student and the faculty and administration. The Student Council consists of the president and one representative from each class and one representative from each club.

The Student Council has the following responsibilities: to bolster the spirit and morale of the student and act with his interests at heart, to create and instill a mutual respect and appreciation within the faculty and students, to inform and secure the approval of the principal and administration on the various proposed improvements and innovations before executing them, and to act in a manner that will be a credit to the community.

Phil or Willie,
that is the question!

Spring Time Is Prom Time

On the evening of May 18, 1962, juniors and seniors were transported by the exotic decorations and fabulous program to a land shrouded in ecstasy where dreams never die, hopes never dim, and one never grows old-- SHANGRILA. With Tom Yoder and Karen Warble reigning as king and queen, the oriental setting was made complete.

After an oriental banquet, the program, and a movie, all were entranced as they danced to the enrapturing sounds of the "Mello-tones."

The Sunshine Society again sponsored the annual Riley Queen Contest. Three girls from the senior class were chosen as candidates for queen. The underclassmen were represented by an attendant from each class who served as the queen's court. Voting for the candidates took place in the form of donations to the Riley Children's Hospital located in Indianapolis. More than $130 was contributed to the fund. Marsha Brown was crowned the 1963 Riley Queen at the Culver basketball game on February 1.

The goals of the Pep Club are to encourage and stimulate school spirit and to support the school's team, thus helping secure victory for the team. These goals are accomplished through the introduction of new yells, chants, and songs. The club sponsors pep rallies and promotes game attendance. Much of the success of the Pep Club, a new club, is due to the understanding and guidance of the sponsor, Mrs. Dunker. Pep Club members can be identified by their gold and white uniforms.

Record breaker?

In 1962, the track team had a successful season. Chuck Stille was the high-point man, placing 3rd in the broad jump and 2nd in the pole vault at the sectional track meet. This qualified him to compete in the regional meet at Fort Wayne, in which he tied for 5th place in the broad jump. The 1962 track team set the following records:

This was the first year of competition for the cross country team. Part of the season was spent in organization; consequently, the cross country team did not run a full schedule of events. This year's leading runners were Bob Lundy and Bob Dallmann.

The seven lettermen of this year's team will return to form the nucleus for next year's team.

CURRICULUM

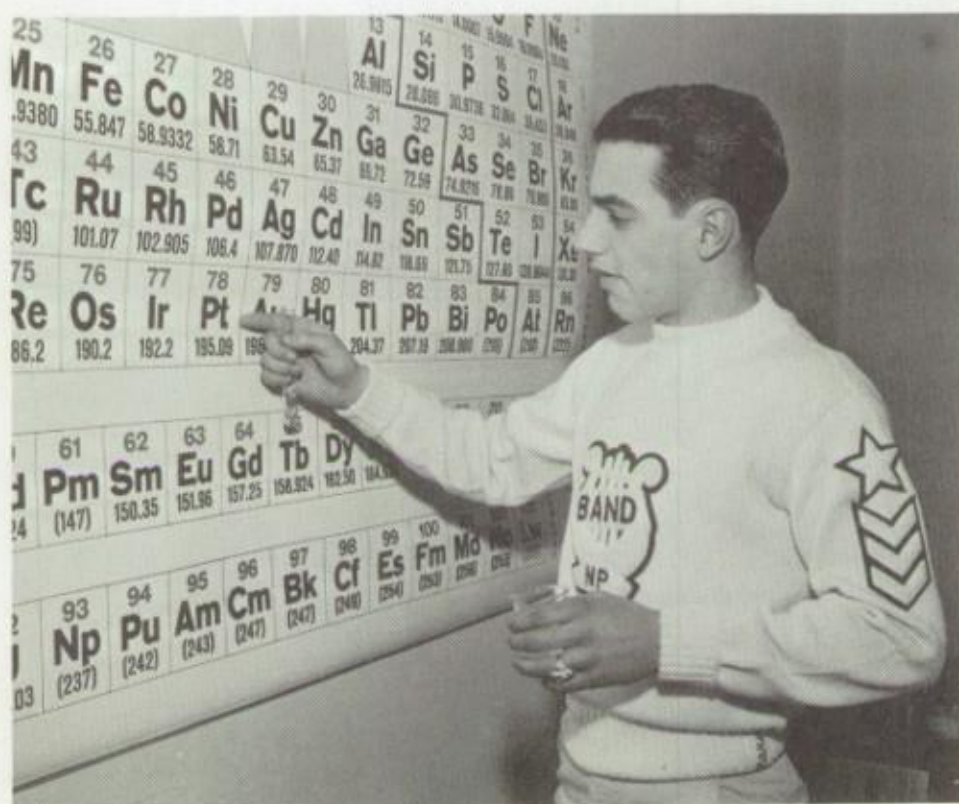

We as students must take the vital steps in the field of education to keep up with our ever changing world. Our classrooms prepare us for future careers of our choice. The beginning courses we take here in high school determine our eligibility for more advanced courses in future years. We know that to fulfill our fondest dreams we must put forth our best at all times and steadily strive for the desired result. Whatever the obstacles or disappointments—we are determined to have High Hopes.

Science And Mathematics Are

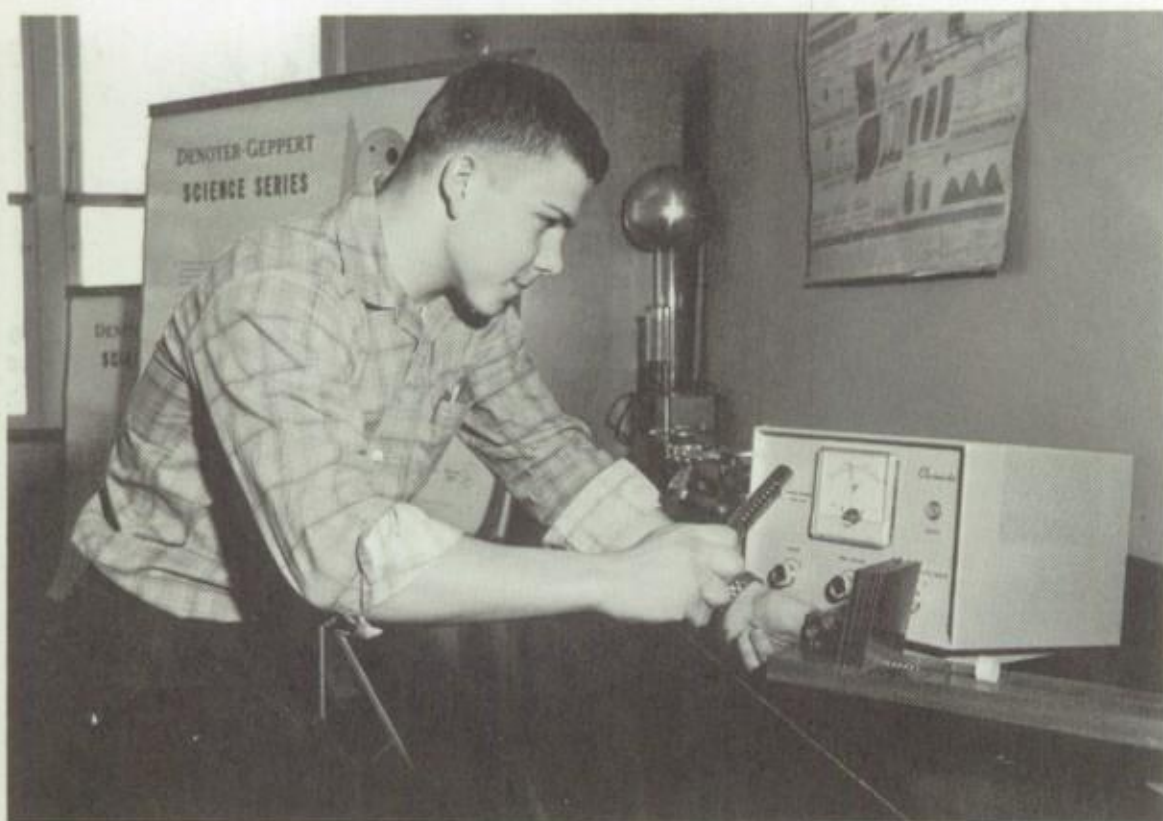

BIOLOGY

In biology freshman students study the functions and life processes of plants and animals from the smallest single-celled organisms to the highly complex human body. In the first semester the students made a notebook. During the second semester they wrote a term paper on a scientific topic of their choice.

CHEMISTRY

A chemistry student studies the composition of matter and how it is affected and sometimes altered by chemical changes. He learns why some reactions of elements, compounds, and mixtures can occur while others cannot.

PHYSICS

In physics a student studies matter and energy and the transformations that the various types of energy undergo. By scientific experimentation the student proves theories and laws that he has always taken for granted.

Essential In Our Modern World

PLANE GEOMETRY

Plane geometry is a branch of mathematics in which the various properties of lines, circles, triangles, and other enclosed figures are studied to determine their similarities and relationships. The student starts with a few basic assumptions and from there adds to his knowledge each time he proves a theorem. Geometry gives a student a background for further advanced mathematics courses and helps him to see the necessity of logical thinking—supporting each statement and action with an acceptable reason.

ALGEBRA

Algebra can be thought of as a generalized form of arithmetic. It is the field of mathematics which enables a student to investigate the properties and relationship of numbers by means of various general symbols.

Besides teaching a student the basic formulas and principles which he needs to know in order to work the problems, algebra also teaches him to think and increases his power of reasoning.

Language Perfects The Art Of Communication

SPEECH

Successful people are usually those who do much reading and who speak in standard English. Many times doors are closed to worthy people simply because they are careless in their use of the English language.

ENGLISH

English, a foreign language to many, intrigued students as they analyzed and described their native language. They increased their vocabulary through the use of records compiled by Dr. Berger Evans of Northwestern University. By studying some examples of the world's great literature, students are able to recognize good literature when they see it.

SPANISH

Learning a second language means learning new speech habits and patterns. The Spanish students learn to keep the vowel sounds pure, to roll the r's, and to soften the other consonant sounds. They get used to saying "To me it he gave" and "They put on themselves the hat." By learning the language students also learn to understand the people who speak it.

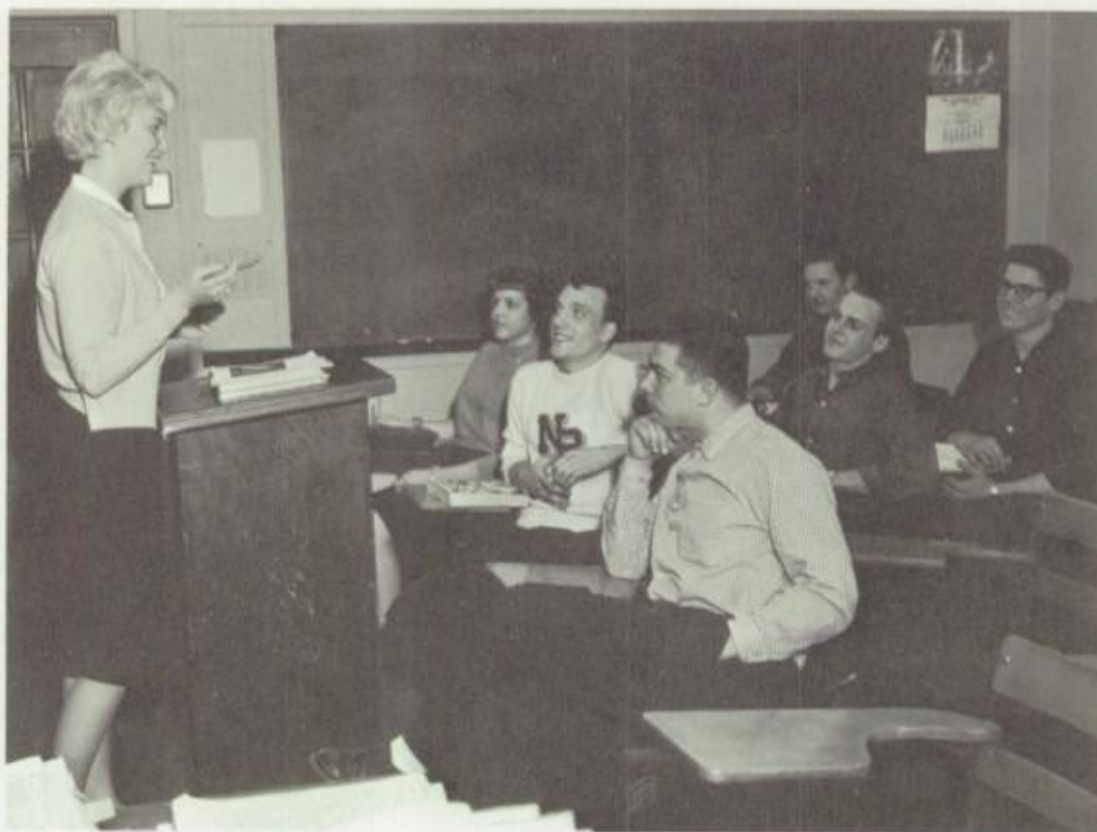

Social Studies Increases World Understanding

CIVICS

The United States is at a crossroad. Will it present a strong united front against communism or fall victim to it? Communism seeks, by every method at its command, to present a false and distorted image of the United States to the rest of the world, to turn its allies away from it, and even to shake the faith of the American people in themselves, their system of government, and their country.

The best defense which our country has against communism is a thorough understanding of our government by every citizen.

WORLD HISTORY

Up-to-date texts, maps, reference books, films, and current events papers help students study world history. Students learn to understand the happenings in our world when they study the policies of former leaders and the results of the policies.

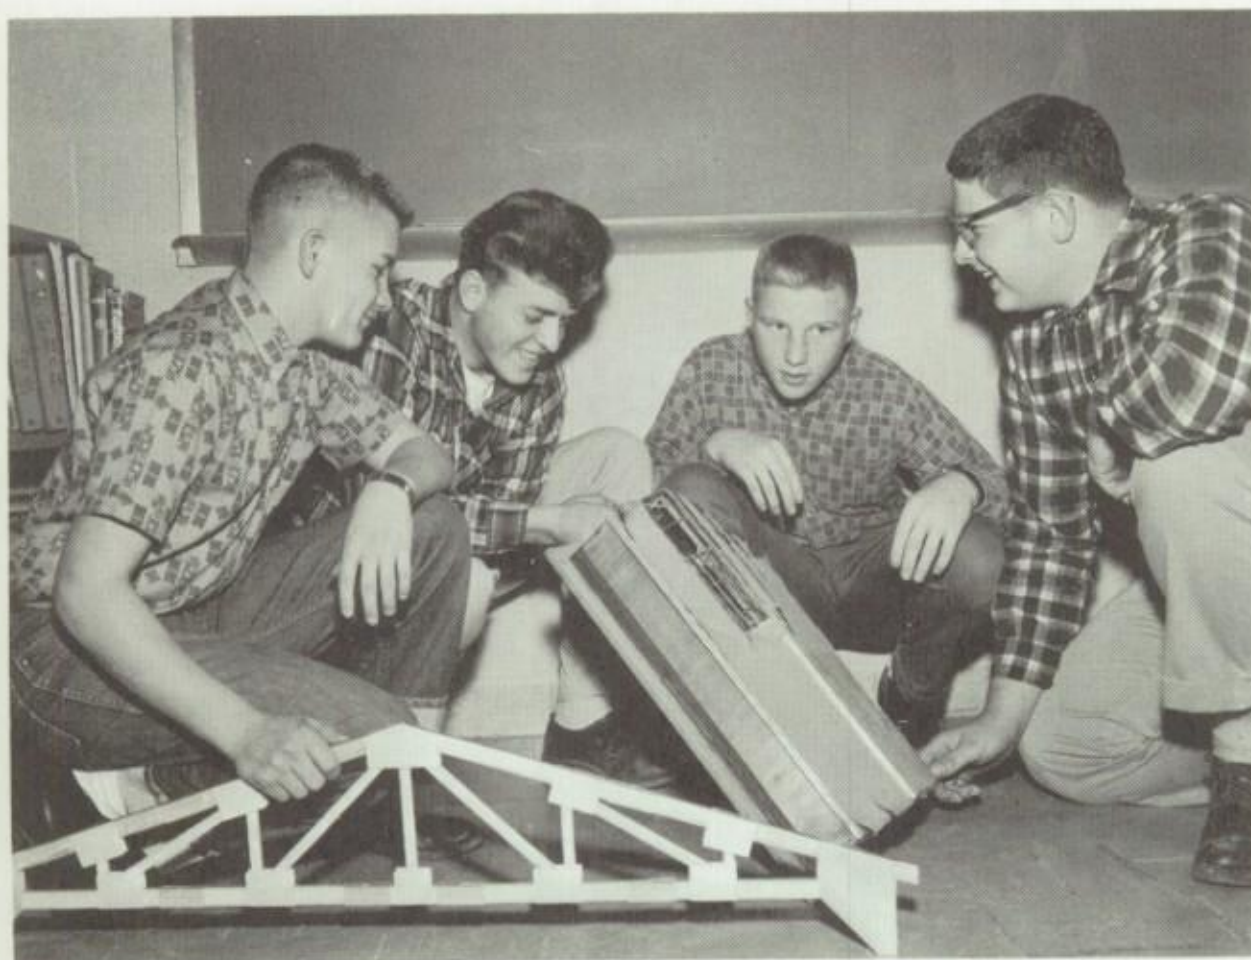

UNITED STATES HISTORY

United States History students study the creation and growth of our country. Fridays are used for discussing current happenings in local, national, and international news. The students learn to become more effective citizens by studying the history of our country and its leaders.

Students Prepare For A Future Vocation

Vocational Agriculture students study in the techniques and science of agricultural production, and receive training in marketing and other phases of farm management. Soil and crop management is studied. Considerable emphasis is also given to farm mechanics.

The instructional program of Vocational Agriculture is designed to fit the needs of the individual students and the local community. The program for the New Paris community includes supervised farm practice, F.F.A. classroom and farm shop instruction for the high school students, a year-around program of instruction for the young farmer chapter, and each winter, an adult farmer class.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

Since its beginning three years ago, student interest in the Industrial Arts course has been growing steadily. In this course, emphasis is placed on mechanical drawing, wood working, and metal working.

Through mastering the use of hand and power tools, many graduates have been able to obtain jobs in which these skills can be utilized. As more equipment is added to the shop, a student's knowledge and skill in this field will increase.

Home Economics Leads To Future Careers

A Dessert Luncheon

Planning Your Dream Kitchen

The home economics program is a complete one, covering the many aspects of homemaking. In the eighth grade the girls study family living, child care, good grooming, and the construction of a skirt and blouse. Freshmen continue studying foods and clothing by serving a luncheon and constructing a one-piece dress. Sophomores make a complete study of nutrition and food preservation. In the second semester they study health and home nursing.

Juniors and seniors studied consumer education in buying linen, china, silver, glassware, and kitchen utensils. Several field trips were taken in connection with the subjects being studied.

Vocational And Personal Business Preparation

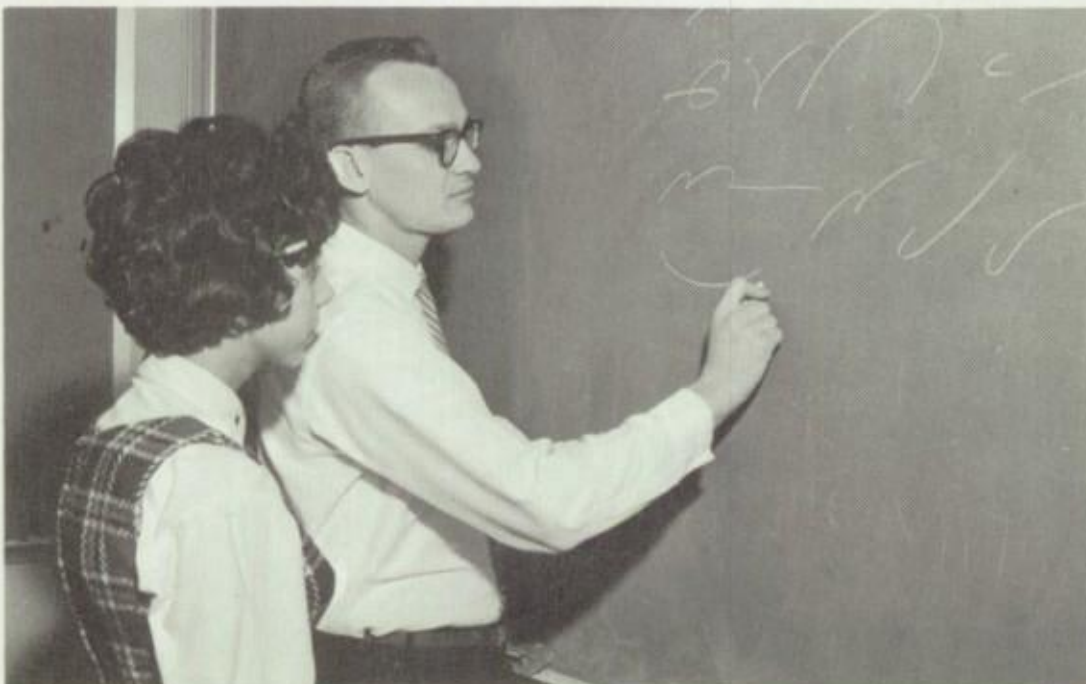

Juniors practice to improve.

In business education many students strive to master the vocational skills and knowledges needed specifically to perform in business positions. Also stressed are the personal-use knowledges and skills needed by every student to participate as effective consumers in our economic society.

General business, business law, bookkeeping, shorthand, typing, and office practice provide a varied and interesting curriculum to the students. Shorthand and office practice are offered only to students who are planning to go into office work. The bookkeeping and office practice classes enjoyed an educational field trip through a modern business office during the second semester. The business law classes spent "a day in court."

Special Courses Create Interest

HEALTH

Health is taught by Mrs. Dunker and Mr. Hettler. This course helps a student by providing him with sufficient anatomy to acquaint him with the basic structure of his own body, enough physiology to give him a basic understanding of the functions of the various parts of his body, and enough practical information concerning disease to enable him to live a longer, happier, and healthier life.

ART

Art is a new addition to the New Paris curriculum this year. In art a student studies not only the traditional arts of sculpturing and painting, but also the impact of art on his personal life. The art teacher, Miss Brennemen, taught the students how to design advertisements for commercial products, make jewelry, construct mobiles, and draw a blueprint of his "dream home."

DRIVER EDUCATION

Driver education, a course which practically every student takes during his high school career, is taught by Mr. Rickard and Mr. Hettler. In driver education a student not only develops the mechanical skill to drive a car, but also forms the attitudes characteristic of a defensive driver.

Physical Education Builds Strong Bodies

GIRLS' PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Through engaging in various physical activities girls change from mere spectators to participants. By learning the basic skills of sports such as bowling, tennis, table tennis, basketball, softball, handball, dancing, and calisthenics, girls are able to participate in these activities with pleasure and confidence throughout life.

BOYS' PHYSICAL EDUCATION

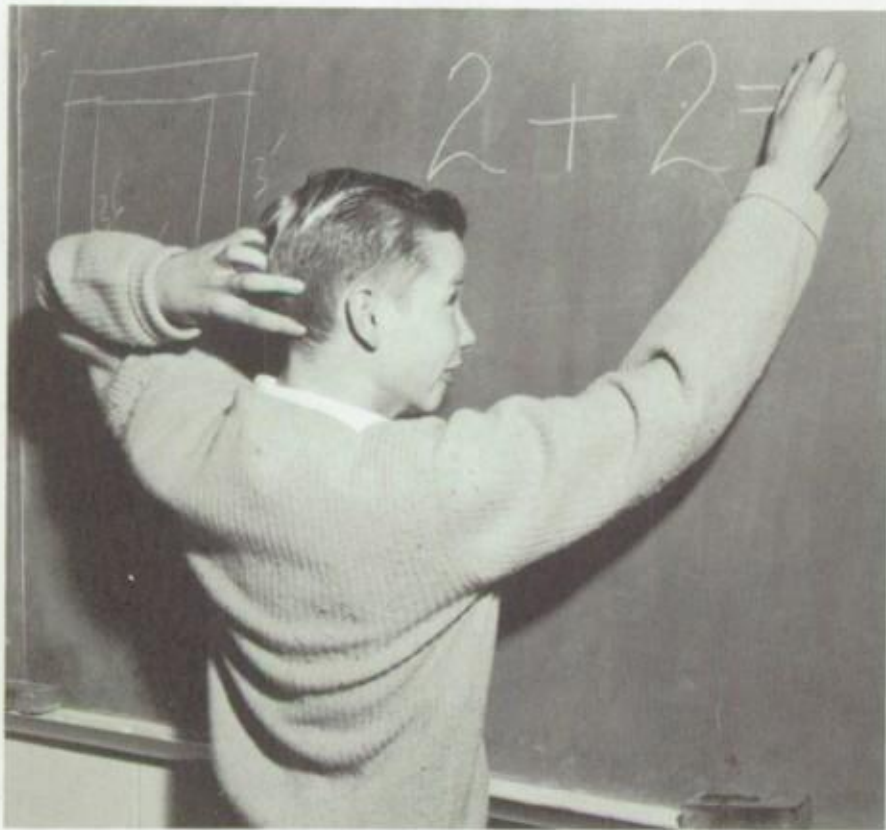

In order to develop a well-rounded individual, physical education attempts to correlate an alert mind with a well-coordinated body. Boys develop their muscles through engaging in activities including basketball, volleyball, softball, track and field, tennis, tumbling, and calisthenics.

Junior High Studies Fundamentals

JUNIOR HIGH SCIENCE

In junior high science a student is given an introduction into many of the various fields of science. He is exposed to many of the great scientific principles which serve as the foundation upon which he can build his future knowledge of science.

JUNIOR HIGH MATH

In junior high math the students utilize their skills of addition, subtraction, multiplication, and division, in solving practical problems—profit and loss, banking, investments, insurance, and taxes. They also get a preview of what algebra will be like.

JUNIOR HIGH SOCIAL STUDIES

In junior high social studies, students learn about the sacrifices made by our ancestors to give to them a free land with equal opportunities for all. They study Indiana's contribution to our nation. And geography really comes to life for junior high students who have more than 50 pen pals in several foreign countries. And they also learn of America's responsibilities to the U.N. and the world.
